MATERIALS <sup>03</sup>

ANODISED ALUMINIUM

MATERIAL DETAILS

Anodising is an electrochemical process used to produce a film of aluminium oxide on the surface of the part. The anodised surface results in an increased resistance to wear and corrosion as well as increased durability and hardness. The anodised surface can be dyed in various coloured finishes providing an alternative finish to painting.

MATERIAL DETAILS

Marble is a metamorphic rock that forms when limestone is subjected to heat and pressure. It is composed primarily of the mineral calcite and usually contains other minerals, such as clay minerals, micas, quartz, pyrite, iron oxides, and graphite. These minerals are what gives marble its unique colours and patterns. The Carrara and Calacatta marble we use is sourced from large quarries in Italy, whereas the Elba marble is sourced from a single quarry in Greece.

MATERIAL VARIATIONS

All of our products are individually assembled and finished, meaning minor variations in finish, colour and form can occur. Several products include handmade components, including those crafted from glass, ceramic and timber. These will all have their own unique forms, patterns and/or finishes. Natural materials, such as timber, veneer and marble will also have varying colours and grains, this is evidence of their natural and unique qualities. These slight variations are to be expected and will not be accepted as a fault or defect in the product.

Colours and finishes as viewed on printed and digital sources are representative only and may not appear identical to the finished product.
